

ART ALL AROUND US

First look at Waller Creek's magical transformation into Austin's favorite interactive art installation

By Katie Friel

Jun 4, 2019, 1:42 pm

Rendering courtesy of Waller Creek Conservancy

For six magical years, Creek Show has transformed downtown's Waller Creek into an interactive art show, complete with glittering installations and dazzling light displays. On June 4, Waller Creek Conservancy, the nonprofit that organizes the show and oversees the creek's redevelopment, announced the dates for the 2019 Creek Show and offered a sneak peek at what visitors can expect.

This year's show runs November 7-17 and is open nightly from 6-10 pm. Installations — six in all — run along Waller Creek from Ninth Street to 12th Street, giving Austinites of all ages a chance to stroll through a part of downtown usually left undiscovered.

---

String Theory by Boka Powell